A Sampling of Our Recent Successes

- $8.5 million settlement for a child whose hand was amputated in a school bus accident.
- $8.4 million medical malpractice verdict on behalf of a woman who suffered brain damage due to overmedication of a painkiller.
- $3.85 million settlement for two ironworkers, one severely injured and the other killed on a construction site.
- $5.5 million settlement for a legally blind woman whose leg was impaled—and ultimately amputated—due to a fallen tree.
- More than $17.5 million for consumers in asbestos/mesothelioma litigation in 2009.

Advocating for harmed consumers requires steadfast determination inside and outside of court. Whether we're handling dangerous prescription drugs, medical negligence, unsafe products or hazardous worksite cases, our attorneys at Anapol Schwartz work tirelessly to identify risks that impact the public—and to ensure responsible parties are held accountable.
